

Thomas M. Easley was born in Oroville, California in 1949 and raised at Lake Tahoe in the Sierra Nevada Mountains. He is a Renaissance Man in the truest sense of the word. Schooled in the principals of philosophy and metaphysics as well as art, Thomas's creativity has taken the form of music and song writing, freelance writing, journalism, teaching, professional skiing, carpentry, and art. He has spent most of his adult life in Europe and Asia. Thomas was taught in the style of the Old Masters giving him the confidence to blend the traditional with the new. He trained as a miniaturist in Italy, and was the first American elected to full membership of the Royal Miniature Society of England. His style mixes the real with the abstract, and his subject matter ranges from still-life to roosters. He currently lives in New York with his family.
